U.S. Department of Labor
Employment and Training Administration
U.S. Employment Service

For detailed information on specific job openings contact your nearest local public Job Service office.

December, 1977
Vol.1 No.7

Occupations in Demand at Job Service Offices, a monthly bulletin, identifies occupations for which large numbers of job openings were listed with public employment service computerized job banks during the previous month. There is no guarantee that a suitable job is currently open in each occupation and location listed. However, the odds are that in an area had a fairly sizable number of openings in a particular job last month, then it may have some openings in a comparable job this month. Your local Job Service office may check for you, whether such openings are available in other locations at any specific time. Please note that competition for desirable jobs may be keen, and that some jobs sometimes remain open because of undesirable working conditions.

Key Terms

- Area Names. Locations identified are those with a relatively large concentration of job openings in the occupations listed. Most area names - Job Bank Districts - are established labor market areas.
- Pay Range. A weighted average - by number of job openings available - of the pay offered by employers for the occupations listed. The low range reported represents the average pay for those openings that account for 20 percent of the total openings available with the lowest pay rates. The high range reported represents the average pay for those openings that account for 20 percent of the total openings available with the highest pay rates.
- Job Bank. A daily computerized listing of job openings listed at public employment service offices in various locations. Job Bank data are organized in terms of States and local areas. Information in the "Occupations in Demand" bulletin is based on a summary of openings data for the preceding month.
- Job Opening. A vacant or open position which has been listed by an employer for filling with a public Job Service office.
- Job Service. A relatively new term used to describe the State Employment Services affiliated with the U.S. Employment Service, Employment and Training Administration of the U.S. Department of Labor. These agencies are responsible for providing public employment services through a network of 2400 component local offices located throughout the country.
- Job Titles. Occupational designations used are based upon the coding system provided by the third edition of the U.S. Employment Service's Dictionary of Occupational Titles. Note that in some instances, occupational titles represent groups of related occupations for which employers had significant numbers of job openings.
- Openings Available. The nationwide total of new full time, permanent openings (openings for jobs expected to last 150 days or more) received by Employment Service Job Banks during the month in the occupations listed, plus those carried-over from the previous month.
- Openings Unfilled. The nationwide total of openings still available on the last day of the month. This figure is obtained by subtracting placements and cancellations during the month from the number of openings available.

JOB BANK OPENINGS HIGHLIGHTS: NOVEMBER 1977

FEB 8 1978

University of Illinois
at Urbana-Champaign

The number of job openings available through Employment Service Job Banks across the Nation fell 10 percent during November, the Employment and Training Administration of the U.S. Department of Labor reported today.

Although the decline marks the second consecutive drop of 1977, the total number of Job Bank openings available was 53 percent higher than in the same month one year ago.

There were 484,000 openings available during November at local offices of the state Job Service' (employment service) agencies. This represents an average of 3,507 openings at each of the 138 local Job Banks covered by this month's survey. Of the total number of current openings, about 274,000--or 57 percent--had been filled or cancelled by the end of the month. This left some 210,000--or 43 percent--of the jobs available as of December 1.

This information is based on a monthly U.S. Employment Service survey of state Job Services, which have 2,400 local offices across the country. The computerized Job Bank system operates in virtually every state. Though this network does not include all job openings that exist in the economy, Job Banks comprise the largest, most comprehensive, and up-to-date source of information on job openings in the Nation.

Month-to-month changes in Job Bank openings totals are computed from "matched samples" developed to cover only those geographic areas represented in both current and previous-period surveys. Use of these data as an indicator of short-run cyclical change is limited by the fact that the data are not adjusted for seasonal variations.

The most pronounced industry cutbacks from October to November in Job Bank opening listings occurred among employers associated with auto repair services (-23 percent), amusement and recreation services (-20 percent), agricultural services, educational services, and hotels and other lodging places (each -19 percent), the manufacture of lumber and wood products (-17 percent), building materials and hardware sales (-16 percent), and construction contractors (-14 percent).

Close to 9 out of every 10 local areas experienced declines in openings totals between October and November. Particularly large cutbacks--of 25 percent or more--were evident in Minnesota (Duluth-Grand Rapids, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Northwest, Southeast, and Southwest), New Hampshire (Statewide), New York (Long Island), North Central Ohio, Western Tennessee, and Virginia (Central, Norfolk, Richmond, Roanoke, and Western).

Gains in area openings--of close to 25 percent or more--were recorded in Kentucky (Lexington and Louisville), New Jersey (Hammonton and Trenton), and Puerto Rico (San Juan).

Occupations with at least 15 percent fewer openings listed in November included those dealing with construction and maintenance work, fabrication of games and toys, fabrication of wood products, food processing, gardening and grounds-keeping, hotel cleaning service, packaging and materials handling, secondary school education, transportation equipment assembly, typing, and wood machining.

Jobs with modest increases in opportunities during the month included those concerned with electrical engineering, industrial engineering, personnel and training administration, guard and related services, and extraction of minerals.

December "Occupations In Demand" Issued

Based on these data, the Labor Department today issued the December edition of "Occupations in Demand at Job Service Offices" (advance copy attached). The first edition of this bulletin was issued in June.

"Occupations in Demand" identifies occupations most frequently listed at Job Service offices the previous month. The December edition lists 128 occupations that accounted for 329,000 openings, or about 70 percent of the November Job Bank total.

The "Occupations In Demand" bulletin is distributed through state Job Service local offices, and is available as well at many libraries, schools, and similar community locations. It is designed to tell job seekers--especially those just entering the labor market--what types of jobs are most frequently available, how much they pay, and where they are located.

The Employment and Training Administration emphasized there is no guarantee that jobs listed in the bulletin are still available. They are occupations for which there was a continuing demand during November in the communities listed.

Data Collection and Dissemination

This release presents and analyzes information from a monthly survey that covers close to 2,400 state Job Service (public employment service) offices located throughout the country. Local Job Service offices receive job orders from employers each day. As these orders are called in, they are coded and fed into a State computer facility. The computer organizes job openings information for each local area in the State and prints it out in indexed form. This printout--the local Job Bank Book--then is reproduced and daily updated editions are distributed to Job Service local offices for the use of individual job applicants.

At the beginning of each month, the state Job Services forward all their job openings information for the entire previous month--in computer tape form--to a national data processing facility. There, these tapes are processed through a number of programs that aggregate and arrange this interstate job openings information into monthly summary reports designed to assist job seekers, students, school counselors and placement specialists, manpower and vocational education planners, research organization personnel, and state Job Service and Unemployment Insurance Service staffs. Job openings reports currently being distributed by the

U.S. Employment Service Office of Technical Support include:

Job Bank Openings Summary (JBOS).

A monthly summary report covering all occupations with full-time, permanent openings listed with the public employment service Job Bank network. Data are indexed both by local area and occupation. Provided on microfiche cards only.

Job Bank Frequently Listed Openings

(JOB-FLO). A monthly summary report covering all occupations in frequent demand based on the number of full-time, permanent openings listed with the public employment service Job Bank network. Also furnishes data on industries generating demand and employer requirements. Provided in paper and microfiche form.

Job Bank Analytical Table Series

(ATS). Analytical summaries of job openings data provided by occupational category and group, wage rate interval, industry, state and Job Bank district.

Occupations In Demand At Job Service Offices.

A monthly newspaper bulletin (copy attached) that identifies occupations most in demand at public employment service offices. Also pinpoints locations with significant concentrations of openings. Available at state Job Service and Unemployment Insurance Service local offices, as well as at many libraries, schools, and similar community locations.

Nature of Openings Data Reported

Openings information provided in the monthly news release relates to full-time, permanent openings; i.e., those for at least 35 hours per week, also expected to last for 150 days or more. Openings classified as part-time or seasonal, therefore, are excluded. Occupational groupings and titles used are based upon information included in the Third Edition of the U.S. Employment Service's Dictionary of Occupational Titles (DOT), (for sale by the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20420). Industry information provided is in terms of codes and titles utilized in the Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) Manual, issued by the Office of Management and Budget. (The SIC Manual also may be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents.)

Percent changes reported for various openings totals, i.e., grand totals, or totals by industry or occupational group, are based on "matched samples" developed each month to cover only those geographic areas represented in both the current and previous-period surveys. However, any use of these job openings data as an indicator of short-run cyclical change should be tempered by the knowledge that they are not adjusted for seasonal variations.

Definition of Key Terms

1. Job Bank. A daily computerized listing of job openings listed at public employment service offices in various locations. Job Bank data are organized in terms of states and local areas. Information in the "Occupations In Demand" bulletin is based on a summary of openings data for the preceding month.
2. Job Bank District. The geographic area for which openings are grouped and reported by state Job Service agencies. In most instances, Job Bank Districts are analogous to established labor market areas.
3. Job Opening. A vacant or open position that has been listed by an employer for filling with a public Job Service office.
4. Job Order. The listing by an employer of one or more job openings with a Job Service local office.
5. Job Service. A relatively new term used to describe the state Employment Services affiliated with the U.S. Employment Service, Employment and Training Administration, of the U.S. Department of Labor. These agencies are responsible for providing public employment services through a network of 2,400 component local offices located throughout the country.
6. Microfiche. A microfilm-like material that is arranged in card instead of reel form. It facilitates a space-saving and economical listing of huge quantities of data in a compact and easy-to-retrieve fashion.
7. Openings Available. The total of new full-time, permanent openings (openings for jobs expected to last 150 days or more) received by Employment Service Job Banks during the month in the occupations listed, plus those carried over from the previous month.
8. Openings Unfilled at Month's End. The result of subtracting placements of individuals referred for jobs and cancellations of job orders from the number of openings available.
9. Openings Unfilled 30 Days or More. All unfilled openings whose job order dates are at least 30 days old.

Limitations

1. The number and kinds of actual job openings available through the Job Service in any area may vary from day to day. The fact that openings in any listed occupation were available in the preceding month in a specific area does not necessarily mean that such openings are currently available.
2. Jobs may go unfilled due to unsatisfactory wages, fringe benefits, or working conditions, rather than lack of local labor supply.
3. Public employment service openings information may not be fully representative of the total job market situation in some areas and occupations.
4. Competition for desirable jobs may be keen.

JOB BANK OPENINGS HIGHLIGHTS: APRIL 1978

The number of job openings available through Employment Service Job Banks across the Nation fell 4 percent to 563,000 during April, the Employment and Training Administration reported today.

The April 1978 decline is the first monthly drop this year. However, April's Job Bank openings were 33 percent higher than in the same month a year ago. Month-to-month changes in these data may not reflect cyclical variations as this information is not adjusted for seasonality.

The 563,000 openings for full-time permanent jobs available during April at local offices of the state Job Service agencies represent an average of 3,804 openings at the 148 local Job Banks covered by this month's survey.

Of the total number of current openings, about 264,000--or 47 percent--had been filled or cancelled by the end of the month. This left some 299,000--or 53 percent--of the jobs still available as of May 1.

In spite of the slight overall decline, more than half (52 percent) of all the local areas represented had gains in openings between March and April. Increases of 15 percent or more were recorded in Delaware (statewide), Maryland (Baltimore), North Carolina (Asheville and Fayetteville), North Dakota (statewide), Nevada (Las Vegas, Reno, and Non-Metro), Ohio (Cincinnati, Columbus, Dayton, East Central, North Central, South East, and Toledo), South Carolina (Greenville), and Tennessee (Eastern, Lower East, and Middle).

The most pronounced industry gains from March to April in Job Bank opening listings occurred among employers associated with railroad transportation (+ 54 percent), bituminous coal and lignite mining (+ 51 percent), agricultural services (+ 30 percent), and construction general contracting for other than buildings (+ 24 percent). Also, there were gains among building construction general contractors and special construction contractors (both + 17 percent), textile mill products (+ 16 percent), and communication (+ 14 percent).

Occupations with at least 30 percent more openings listed in April--in descending order--included those dealing with weaving and related work, duplicating machine work, materials moving and storing, vocational education, railroad transportation, assembly and repair of electrical equipment, miscellaneous merchandise work, stock checking and related work, miscellaneous metal fabricating, fabrication and repair of wood products, and electronic and electrical product fabrication, installation and repair.

This information is based entirely on a monthly U.S. Employment Service survey of state Job Services, which have 2,500 local offices across the country. The computerized Job Bank system operates in virtually every state. Though this network does not include all job openings that exist in the economy, Job Banks comprise the largest, most comprehensive, and up-to-date source of information on job openings in the Nation.

Changes in Job Bank openings totals are computed from "matched samples" developed to cover only those geographic areas represented in both current and previous-period surveys.

May "Occupations In Demand" Issued

Based on these data, the Labor Department today issued the May edition of "Occupations In Demand at Job Service Offices" (advance copy attached).

"Occupations In Demand" identifies occupations most frequently listed at Job Service offices the previous month. The May edition lists 133 occupations that accounted for 306,000 openings, or more than 54 percent of the April Job Bank total.

The "Occupations In Demand" bulletin is distributed through state Job Service local offices, and is available as well at many libraries, schools, and similar community locations. It is designed to tell job seekers--especially those just entering the labor market--what types of jobs are most frequently available, how much they pay, and where they are located.

The Employment and Training Administration emphasized that there is no guarantee that jobs listed in the bulletin are still available. They are occupations for which there was a continuing demand during April in the communities listed.

This monthly bulletin highlights occupations with large numbers of job openings available throughout the United States. It is based on job orders placed by employers at public employment service Job Banks during the previous month.

Information published in Occupations in Demand generally provides a good indication of what occupations are in greatest demand in the national Job Bank network. Your nearest Job Service Office is able to assist you in determining the availability of openings included in this publication.

There is no guarantee that a suitable job is currently open in each occupation and location listed. Also, competition for some jobs may be keen, while others remain open because of low wages or undesirable working conditions.

Starred (★) job titles indicate occupations where one-third or more of total openings are federally funded public service employment (PSE) jobs. PSE jobs are usually of limited duration and most have special eligibility requirements. These and other federally funded openings are excluded when "areas with significant numbers of openings" are selected.

See page 2 for definitions of key terms and how the occupations are selected for publication here. Page 8 lists State abbreviations and information provided.

Key Terms and Selection Criteria

- Area Names. Locations identified are those with a relatively large concentration of job openings in the occupation listed. Most area names — Job Bank Districts — are established labor market areas. Reading from left to right, area names are listed in alphabetical order by State abbreviation.
- Pay Range. A weighted average — by number of job openings available — of the pay offered by employers for the occupations listed. The low range reported represents the average pay for those openings that account for 20 percent of the total openings available with the lowest pay rates; the high range reported represents the average pay for those openings that account for 20 percent of the total openings available with the highest pay rates.
- Job Bank. A daily computerized listing of job openings listed at public employment service offices in various locations. Job Bank data are organized in terms of State and local areas. Information in the "Occupations in Demand" bulletin is based on a summary of openings data for the preceding month.
- Job Openings. A vacant or open position which has been listed by an employer for filling with a public Job Service office.
- Job Service. A relatively new term used to describe the State Employment Services affiliated with the U. S. Employment Service, Employment and Training Administration of the U.S. Department of Labor. These agencies are responsible for providing public employment services through a network of 2400 component local offices located throughout the country.
- Job Titles. Occupational designations used are based upon the coding system provided by the third edition of the U.S. Employment Services's Dictionary of Occupational Titles. Note that in some instances, occupational titles represent groups of related occupations for which employers had significant numbers of job openings.
- Openings Available For Month. The nationwide total of new full-time permanent openings (openings for jobs expected to last 150 days or more) received by Employment Service Job Banks during the month in the occupations listed, plus those carried-over from the previous month.
- Openings Still Available at End of Month. The nationwide total of openings still available on the last day of the month. This figure is obtained by subtracting placements and cancellations during the month from the number of openings available.
- Selection Criteria. Occupations included in this bulletin generally are those that were frequently listed at one or more Job Bank district during the previous month. To be considered "frequently listed" in a local area, an occupation must have had a disproportionately large number of openings relative to the total number of openings available at the local Job Bank. For example, a frequently listed occupation in a Job Bank district with 7,000 total openings per month must have had at least 50 openings; while occupations listed for an area with 1,000 total openings could have had as few as 20.

JOB BANK OPENINGS HIGHLIGHTS: JUNE 1978

There were 632,000 permanent full-time jobs available through Employment Service Job Banks across the Nation during June, the Department of Labor reported today.

Although down by 2.3 percent from May's all-time high, this is the second highest number of job openings recorded since the program began in March 1972. June's Job Bank openings were 23 percent higher than in the same month a year ago. Month-to-month changes in these data may not reflect cyclical variations, as this information is not adjusted for seasonality.

The 632,000 openings at local offices of the state Job Service agencies represent an average of 4,213 openings at the 150 local Job Banks covered by this month's survey. This average is also the second highest since the program began.

Of the total number of current openings, about 330,000--or 52 percent--had been filled or cancelled by the end of the month. This left some 302,000--or 48 percent--of these jobs still available as of July 1.

As a result of the overall decrease, only 42 percent of all the local areas represented had gains in openings between May and June. Increases of 10 percent or more were recorded in Arizona (Tucson), California (San Jose), Missouri (Southwestern and St. Louis), Mississippi (Central and Southern), North Carolina

(Asheville), New Jersey (Jersey City), New York (Utica/Rome), Ohio (Akron and Cleveland), Oregon (Central Eastern and Southern), South Dakota (Statewide), and Wisconsin (Madison, Milwaukee, Northwest, and Southeast).

The most pronounced industry gains from May to June in Job Bank opening listings occurred among employers associated with national security and international affairs (+24 percent), railroad transportation (+19 percent), forestry (+13 percent), educational services (+ 10 percent), general merchandise stores (+ 9 percent), air transportation and general government services (both + 8 percent), and private household services (+ 7 percent). Most of the larger industries employing the bulk of American workers were relatively stable from May to June, showing little fluctuation in job orders placed with Job Service Job Banks.

Occupations with 1,000 or more total openings and with at least 10 percent more openings listed in June included those dealing with electronic and electrical products fabrication, installation and repair, railroad transportation, blight and pest control, typing, wire communication, detection, and signal equipment assembly, installation and repair, utilities equipment servicing and repair, miscellaneous merchandising work, practical nursing, miscellaneous medical and health occupations, miscellaneous metal processing, and miscellaneous processing of food and related products.

This information is based on a monthly U.S. Employment Service survey of state Job Services which have 2,500 local offices across the country. The computerized Job Bank system operates in virtually every state. Though this network does not include all job openings that exist in the economy, Employment Service Job Banks comprise the largest, most comprehensive, and up-to-date source of information on job openings in the Nation.

Changes in Job Bank openings totals are computed from "matched samples" developed to cover only those geographic areas represented in both current and previous-period surveys.

July "Occupations In Demand" Issued

The Labor Department today issued the July edition of "Occupations In Demand at Job Service Offices," based on these data (advance copy attached).

"Occupations In Demand" identifies occupations most frequently listed at Job Service offices the previous month. The July edition lists 131 occupations that accounted for 438,000 openings, or more than 69 percent of the June Job Bank total.

The "Occupations In Demand" bulletin is distributed through state Job Service local offices, and is available as well at many libraries, schools, and similar community locations. It is designed to tell job seekers--especially those just entering the labor market--what types of jobs are most frequently available, how much they pay, and where they are located.

The Employment and Training Administration cautioned that there is no guarantee that jobs listed in the bulletin are still available. They represent occupations for which there was a continuing demand during June in the communities listed.

Data Collection and Dissemination

This release presents and analyzes information from a monthly survey that covers close to 2,500 state Job Service (public employment service) offices located throughout the country. Local Job Service offices receive job orders from employers each day. As these orders are called in, they are coded and fed into a State computer facility. The computer organizes job openings information for each local area in the State and prints it out in indexed form. This printout--the local Job Bank Book--then is reproduced and daily updated editions are distributed to Job Service local offices for the use of individual job applicants.

At the beginning of each month, the state Job Services forward all their job openings information for the entire previous month--in computer tape form--to a national data processing facility. There, these tapes are processed through a number of programs that aggregate and arrange this interstate job openings information into monthly summary reports designed to assist job seekers, students, school counselors and placement specialists, manpower and vocational education planners, research organization personnel, and state Job Service and Unemployment Insurance Service staffs. Job openings reports currently being distributed by the U.S. Employment Service Office of Technical Support include:

Job Bank Openings Summary (JBOS).

A monthly summary report covering all occupations with full-time, permanent openings listed with the public employment service Job Bank network. Data are indexed both by local area and occupation. Provided on microfiche cards only.

Job Bank Frequently Listed Openings

(JOB-ELO). A monthly summary report covering all occupations in frequent demand based on the number of full-time, permanent openings listed with the public employment service Job Bank network. Also furnishes data on industries generating demand and employer requirements. Provided in paper and microfiche form.

Job Bank Analytical Table Series.

(ATS). Analytical summaries of job openings data provided by occupational category and group, wage rate interval, industry, state and Job Bank district.

Occupations In Demand At Job Service Offices.

A monthly newspaper bulletin (copy attached) that identifies occupations most in demand at public employment service offices. Also pinpoints locations with significant concentrations of openings. Available at state Job Service and Unemployment Insurance Service local offices, as well as at many libraries, schools, and similar community locations.

Nature of Openings Data Reported

Openings information provided in the monthly news release relates to full-time, permanent openings; i.e., those for at least 35 hours per week, also expected to last for 150 days or more. Openings classified as part-time or seasonal, therefore, are excluded. Occupational groupings and titles used are based upon information included in the Third Edition of the U.S. Employment Service's Dictionary of Occupational Titles (DOT), (for sale by the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20420). Industry information provided is in terms of codes and titles utilized in the Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) Manual, issued by the Office of Management and Budget. (The SIC Manual also may be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents.)

Percent changes reported for various openings totals, i.e., grand totals, or totals by industry or occupational group, are based on "matched samples" developed each month to cover only those geographic areas represented in both the current and previous-period surveys. However, any use of these job openings data as an indicator of short-run cyclical change should be tempered by the knowledge that they are not adjusted for seasonal variations.

Definition of Key Terms

1. Job Bank. A daily computerized listing of job openings listed at public employment service offices in various locations. Job Bank data are organized in terms of states and local areas. Information in the "Occupations In Demand" bulletin is based on a summary of openings data for the preceding month.
2. Job Bank District. The geographic area for which openings are grouped and reported by state Job Service agencies. In most instances, Job Bank Districts are analogous to established labor market areas.
3. Job Opening. A vacant or open position that has been listed by an employer for filling with a public Job Service office.
4. Job Order. The listing by an employer of one or more job openings with a Job Service local office.
5. Job Service. A relatively new term used to describe the state Employment Services affiliated with the U.S. Employment Service, Employment and Training Administration, of the U.S. Department of Labor. These agencies are responsible for providing public employment services through a network of 2,400 component local offices located throughout the country.
6. Microfiche. A microfilm-like material that is arranged in card instead of reel form. It facilitates a space-saving and economical listing of huge quantities of data in a compact and easy-to-retrieve fashion.
7. Openings Available for Month. The total of new full-time, permanent openings (openings for jobs expected to last 150 days or more) received by Employment Service Job Banks during the month in the occupations listed, plus those carried over from the previous month.
8. Openings Still Available at End of Month. The result of subtracting placements of individuals referred for jobs and cancellations of job orders from the number of openings available.
9. Openings Available for 30 Days or More. All openings still available whose job order dates are at least 30 days old.

Limitations

1. The number and kinds of actual job openings available through the Job Service in any area may vary from day to day. The fact that openings in any listed occupation were available in the preceding month in a specific area does not necessarily mean that such openings are currently available.
2. Jobs may remain open due to unsatisfactory wages, fringe benefits, or working conditions, rather than lack of local labor supply.
3. Public employment service openings information may not be fully representative of the total job market situation in some areas and occupations.
4. Competition for desirable jobs may be keen.

July, 1978
Vol. 2 No. 7

This monthly bulletin highlights occupations with large numbers of job openings available throughout the United States. It is based on job orders placed by employers at public employment service Job Banks during the previous month.

Information published in Occupations in Demand generally provides a good indication of what occupations are in greatest demand in the national Job Bank network. Your nearest Job Service Office is able to assist you in determining the availability of openings included in this publication.

There is no guarantee that a suitable job is currently open in each occupation and location listed. Also, competition for some jobs may be keen, while others remain open, because of low wages or undesirable working conditions.

Starred (★) job titles indicate occupations where one-third or more of total openings are federally funded public service employment (PSE) jobs. PSE jobs are usually of limited duration and most have special eligibility requirements. These and other federally funded openings are excluded when "areas with significant numbers of openings" are selected.

See page 2 for definitions of key terms and how the occupations are selected for publication here. Page 8 lists State abbreviations.

Key Terms and Selection Criteria

- Area Names. Locations identified are those with a relatively large concentration of job openings in the occupation listed. Most area names — Job Bank Districts — are established labor market areas. Reading from left to right, area names are listed in alphabetical order by State abbreviation.
- Pay Range. A weighted average — by number of job openings available — of the pay offered by employers for the occupations listed. The low range reported represents the average pay for those openings that account for 20 percent of the total openings available with the lowest pay rates; the high range reported represents the average pay for those openings that account for 20 percent of the total openings available with the highest pay rates.
- Job Bank. A daily computerized listing of job openings listed at public employment service offices in various locations. Job Bank data are organized in terms of State and local areas. Information in the "Occupations in Demand" bulletin is based on a summary of openings data for the preceding month.
- Job Openings. A vacant or open position which has been listed by an employer for filling with a public Job Service office.
- Job Service. A relatively new term used to describe the State Employment Services affiliated with the U. S. Employment Service, Employment and Training Administration of the U.S. Department of Labor. These agencies are responsible for providing public employment services through a network of 2400 component local offices located throughout the country.
- Job Titles. Occupational designations used are based upon the coding system provided by the third edition of the U.S. Employment Services's Dictionary of Occupational Titles. Note that in some instances, occupational titles represent groups of related occupations for which employers had significant numbers of job openings.
- Openings Available For Month. The nationwide total of new full-time permanent openings (openings for jobs expected to last 150 days or more) received by Employment Service Job Banks during the month in the occupations listed, plus those carried-over from the previous month.
- Openings Still Available at End of Month. The nationwide total of openings still available on the last day of the month. This figure is obtained by subtracting placements and cancellations during the month from the number of openings available.
- Selection Criteria. Occupations included in this bulletin generally are those that were frequently listed at one or more Job Bank district during the previous month. To be considered "frequently listed" in a local area, an occupation must have had a disproportionately large number of openings relative to the total number of openings available at the local Job Bank. For example, a frequently listed occupation in a Job Bank district with 7,000 total openings per month must have had at least 50 openings, while occupations listed for an area with 1,000 total openings could have had as few as 20.

JOB BANK OPENINGS HIGHLIGHTS: August 1978

There were 656,000 permanent full-time jobs available through Employment Service Job Banks across the Nation during August, the Department of Labor reported today.

This is an increase of 16 percent over July's total, and is the second-highest number of job openings recorded since the program began in 1972.

August's Job Bank openings were 11.9 percent higher than in the same month a year ago. Month-to-month changes in these data may not reflect cyclical variations as this information is not adjusted for seasonality.

The 656,000 openings at local offices of the state Job Service agencies represent an average of 4,432 openings at the 148 local Job Banks covered by this month's survey. This average is the highest since the program began in March of 1972.

Of the total number of current openings, about 324,000--or 49 percent--had been filled or cancelled by the end of the month. This left some 332,000--or 51 percent--of these jobs still available as of September 1.

As a result of the overall increase, 90 percent of all the local areas represented had gains in openings between July and August. Increases of 30 percent or more were recorded in Arkansas (Little Rock), California (Sacramento and San Diego), Colorado (Pueblo), Florida (Fort Lauderdale), Indiana (Indianapolis), Kentucky (Lexington and Louisville), Maryland (Annapolis and Western), Minnesota (Central, Northeast, Northwest, Southeast, Southwest, and Twin Cities), Mississippi (Central and Northern), Nebraska (Lincoln and Omaha), North Carolina (Hickory), New Jersey (Hammononton and Paterson), New York (Syracuse and Utica/Rome), Ohio (East Central), Oklahoma (Oklahoma City), and Wisconsin (Madison).

The most pronounced industry gains from July to August in Job Bank opening listings occurred among employers associated with the manufacture of furniture and fixtures, and paper and allied products (both + 36 percent), the provision of personal services, and amusement and recreation services, except movies (both + 33 percent), apparel and accessory stores, and miscellaneous retail sales (both + 31 percent), food stores (+ 28 percent), building construction - general contractors, and processing of food and kindred products (both + 26 percent), the manufacture of leather and leather products, and furniture and home furnishing stores (both + 25 percent), the manufacture of lumber and wood products, except furniture, and general merchandise stores (both + 24 percent), and agricultural production-livestock, and agricultural services (both + 23 percent). Most of the larger industries employing the bulk of American workers showed substantial increases of 7-36 percent from July to August in job orders placed with Job Service Banks.

Occupations with 1,000 or more total openings and with at least 30 percent more openings listed in August included those dealing with miscellaneous food and beverage preparation, laundry pressing services, miscellaneous fabrication and repair of wood products, sales clerking, kitchen work, sales of textile products and accessories, clerical filing, hospital, morgue and related health attendants, stock checking and related work, metal fabricating machine work, miscellaneous wood machining, miscellaneous assembly and repair of electrical equipment, packaging and material handling, and miscellaneous transportation work.

This information is based on a monthly U.S. Employment Service survey of state Job Services which have 2,500 local offices across the country. The computerized Job Bank system operates in virtually every state. Though this network does not include all job openings that exist in the economy, Employment Service Job Banks comprise the largest, most comprehensive, and up-to-date source of information on job openings in the Nation.

Changes in Job Bank openings totals are computed from "matched samples" developed to cover only those geographic areas represented in both current and previous-period surveys.

September "Occupations in Demand" Issued

The Labor Department today issued the September edition of "Occupations In Demand at Job Service Offices," based on these data (advance copy attached).

"Occupations In Demand" identifies occupations most frequently listed at Job Service offices the previous month. The September edition lists 150 occupations that account for 462,000 openings, or more than 70 percent of the August Job Bank total.

The "Occupations In Demand" bulletin is distributed through state Job Service local offices, and is available as well at many libraries, schools, and similar community locations. It is designed to tell job seekers--especially those just entering the labor market--what types of jobs are most frequently available, how much they pay, and where they are located.

The Employment and Training Administration cautioned that there is no guarantee that jobs listed in the bulletin are still available. They represent occupations for which there was a continuing demand during August in the communities listed.

Data Collection and Dissemination

This release presents and analyzes information from a monthly survey that covers close to 2,500 state Job Service (public employment service) offices located throughout the country. Local Job Service offices receive job orders from employers each day. As these orders are called in, they are coded and fed into a State computer facility. The computer organizes job openings information for each local area in the State and prints it out in indexed form. This printout--the local Job Bank Book--then is reproduced and daily updated editions are distributed to Job Service local offices for the use of individual job applicants.

At the beginning of each month, the state Job Services forward all their job openings information for the entire previous month--in computer tape form--to a national data processing facility. There, these tapes are processed through a number of programs that aggregate and arrange this interstate job openings information into monthly summary reports designed to assist job seekers, students, school counselors and placement specialists, manpower and vocational education planners, research organization personnel, and state Job Service and Unemployment Insurance Service staffs.

This monthly bulletin highlights occupations with large numbers of job openings available throughout the United States. It is based on job orders placed by employers at public employment service Job Banks during the previous month.

Information published in Occupations in Demand generally provides a good indication of what occupations are in greatest demand in the national Job Bank network. Your nearest Job Service Office is able to assist you in determining the availability of openings included in this publication.

There is no guarantee that a suitable job is currently open in each occupation and location listed. Also, competition for some jobs may be keen, while others remain open because of low wages or undesirable working conditions.

Starred (★) job titles indicate occupations where one-third or more of total openings are federally funded public service employment (PSE) jobs. PSE jobs are usually of limited duration and most have special eligibility requirements. These and other federally funded openings are excluded when "areas with significant numbers of openings" are selected.

See page 2 for definitions of key terms and how the occupations are selected for publication here. Page 8 lists State abbreviations.

Key Terms and Selection Criteria

- Area Names. Locations identified are those with a relatively large concentration of job openings in the occupation listed. Most area names—Job Bank Districts—are established labor market areas. Reading from left to right, area names are listed in alphabetical order by State abbreviation.
- Pay Range. A weighted average—by number of job openings available—of the pay offered by employers for the occupations listed. The low range reported represents the average pay for those openings that account for 20 percent of the total openings available with the lowest pay rates; the high range reported represents the average pay for those openings that account for 20 percent of the total openings available with the highest pay rates.
- Job Bank. A daily computerized listing of job openings listed at public employment service offices in various locations. Job Bank data are organized in terms of State and local areas. Information in the "Occupations in Demand" bulletin is based on a summary of openings data for the preceding month.
- Job Openings. A vacant or open position which has been listed by an employer for filling with a public Job Service office.
- Job Service. A relatively new term used to describe the State Employment Services affiliated with the U.S. Employment Service, Employment and Training Administration of the U.S. Department of Labor. These agencies are responsible for providing public employment services through a network of 2400 component local offices located throughout the country.
- Job Titles. Occupational designations used are based upon the coding system provided by the third edition of the U.S. Employment Service's Dictionary of Occupational Titles. Note that in some instances, occupational titles represent groups of related occupations for which employers had significant numbers of job openings.
- Openings Available For Month. The nationwide total of new full-time permanent openings (openings for jobs expected to last 150 days or more) received by Employment Service Job Banks during the month in the occupations listed, plus those carried-over from the previous month.
- Openings Still Available at End of Month. The nationwide total of openings still available on the last day of the month. This figure is obtained by subtracting placements and cancellations during the month from the number of openings available.
- Selection Criteria. Occupations included in this bulletin generally are those that were frequently listed at one or more Job Bank district during the previous month. To be considered "frequently listed" in a local area, an occupation must have had a disproportionately large number of openings relative to the total number of openings available at the local Job Bank. For example, a frequently listed occupation in a Job Bank district with 7,000 total openings per month must have had at least 50 openings, while occupations listed for an area with 1,000 total openings could have had as few as 20.

JOB BANK OPENINGS HIGHLIGHTS: November 1978

There were 550,000 permanent full-time jobs available through Employment Service Job Banks across the Nation during November, the Department of Labor reported today.

This is a decrease of 8.5 percent from October's total, and is the third straight monthly decline in the number of job openings recorded.

The 550,000 openings at local office of the state Job Service agencies represent an average of 3,460 openings at the 159 local Job Banks covered by this month's survey. This month's average openings figure is the third-lowest for 1978 to date, and is approximately the same as in November of 1977.

November's Job Bank openings, although 2.6 percent less than in the same month a year ago, are still running about 5 percent higher than the first two months of this year.

This month marks the second consecutive time since these data were first published in June 1977 that one month's job openings have been less than in the same month the previous year. Month-to-month changes in these data may not reflect cyclical variations as this information is not adjusted for seasonality.

Of the total number of current openings, about 286,000—or 52 percent—had been filled or cancelled by the end of the month. This left some 264,000 of these jobs still available as of December 1.

As a result of the overall decrease, only 18 percent of all the local areas represented had gains in openings between October and November. Increases of 10 percent or more were recorded in California (LA Metro, Long Beach, and San Gabriel), Georgia (Atlanta, Central, North, and South), Kentucky (Eastern, Louisville, and Western), Massachusetts (Lawrence, Boston Metro, and Taunton), New Jersey (Newark), and New York (Utica/Rome).

The only industry gains from October to November in Job Bank opening listings occurred among employers associated with agricultural production-livestock (+ 64 percent), bituminous coal and lignite mining (+ 30 percent), transportation by air (+ 14 percent), banking (+ 24 percent), manufacture of paper and allied products (+ 6 percent), local transit and interurban highway transit (+ 2 percent), electric, gas, and sanitary services (+ 2 percent), and miscellaneous retail trade (+ 2 percent). Most of the larger industries employing the bulk of American workers showed between a three and twenty-seven percent decrease from October to November in job orders placed with Job Service Job Banks.

Occupations with 1,000 or more total openings and with at least 10 percent more openings listed in November included those employing or involving: gear machining; filing, grinding, buffing, cleaning, and polishing; domestic animal farming; fabrication and repair of wood products; fabrication and repair of textile, leather and related products; electronic/electrical engineering; installation and repair of electrical products; telephone operators assembly, installation, and repair of wire communication, detection, and signaling equipment; extraction of minerals (mining); and slaughtering, breaking, curing and related occupations.

This information is based on a monthly U.S. Employment Service survey of state Job Service which have 2,500 local offices across the country. The computerized Job Bank system operates in virtually every state. Though this network does not include all job openings that exist in the economy, Employment Service Job Banks comprise the largest, most comprehensive, and up-to-date source of information on job openings in the Nation.

Changes in Job Bank openings totals are computed from "matched samples" developed to cover only those geographic areas represented in both current and previous-period surveys.

It should be noted that the Job Bank openings data for November exclusively utilize the fourth edition Dictionary of Occupational Titles (DOT) format, including only those titles and codes presented in that document.

In addition, the data selection criteria were modified as of October 1, 1978 to exclude (1) all job orders over 120 days old, and (2) orders identified as part of the Mandatory Listing Program (Executive Order 11598) that are more than 60 days old and against which no referral activity has been conducted by local ES offices.

December "Occupations in Demand" Issued

Based on these data, the Labor Department today issued the December edition of "Occupations in Demand at Job Service Offices" an advance copy of which is attached.

"Occupations in Demand" identifies occupations most frequently listed at Job Service offices the previous month. The December edition lists 117 occupations that account for 288,000 openings, or over 52 percent of the November Job Bank total.

The "Occupations in Demand" bulletin is distributed through state Job Service local offices, and is available as well at many libraries, schools, and similar community locations. It is designed to tell job seekers--especially those just entering the labor market--what types of jobs are most frequently available, how much they pay, and where they are located.

The Employment and Training Administration cautioned that there is no guarantee that jobs listed in the bulletin are still available. They represent occupations for which there was a continuing demand during November in the communities listed.

Data Collection and Dissemination

This release presents and analyzes information from a monthly survey that covers close to 2,500 state Job Service (public employment service) offices located throughout the country. Local Job Service offices receive job orders from employers each day. As these orders are called in, they are coded and fed into a State computer facility. The computer organizes job openings information for each local area in the State and prints it out in indexed form. This printout--the local Job Bank Book--then is reproduced and daily updated editions are distributed to Job Service local offices for the use of individual job applicants.

At the beginning of each month, the state Job Services forward all their job openings information for the entire previous month--in computer tape form--to a national data processing facility. There, these tapes are processed through a number of programs that aggregate and arrange this interstate job openings information into monthly summary reports designed to assist job seekers, students, school counselors and placement specialists, manpower and vocational education planners, research organization personnel, and state Job Service and Unemployment Insurance staffs.

December, 1978
Vol. 2 No. 12

This monthly bulletin highlights occupations with large numbers of job openings available throughout the United States. It is based on job orders placed by employers at public employment service Job Banks during the previous month.

Information published in Occupations in Demand generally provides a good indication of what occupations are in greatest demand in the national Job Bank network. Your nearest Job Service Office is able to assist you in determining the availability of openings included in this publication.

There is no guarantee that a suitable job is currently open in each occupation and location listed. Also, competition for some jobs may be keen, while others remain open because of low wages or undesirable working conditions.

Starred (★) job titles indicate occupations where one-third or more of total openings are federally funded public service employment (PSE) jobs. PSE jobs are usually of limited duration and most have special eligibility requirements. These and other federally funded openings are excluded when "areas with significant numbers of openings" are selected.

See page 2 for definitions of key terms and how the occupations are selected for publication here. Page 8 lists State abbreviations and State employment security agency Job Service addresses.

Key Terms and Selection Criteria

- Area Names. Locations identified are those with a relatively large concentration of job openings in the occupation listed. Most area names—Job Bank Districts—are established labor market areas. Reading from left to right, area names are listed in alphabetical order by State abbreviation.
- Pay Range. A weighted average—by number of job openings available—of the pay offered by employers for the occupations listed. The low range reported represents the average pay for those openings that account for 20 percent of the total openings available with the lowest pay rates; the high range reported represents the average pay for those openings that account for 20 percent of the total openings available with the highest pay rates.
- Job Bank. A daily computerized listing of job openings listed at public employment service offices in various locations. Job Bank data are organized in terms of State and local areas. Information in the "Occupations in Demand" bulletin is based on a summary of openings data for the preceding month.
- Job Openings. A vacant or open position which has been listed by an employer for filling with a public Job Service office.
- Job Service. A relatively new term used to describe the State Employment Services affiliated with the U. S. Employment Service, Employment and Training Administration of the U.S. Department of Labor. These agencies are responsible for providing public employment services through a network of 2400 component local offices located throughout the country.
- Job Titles. Occupational designations used are based upon the coding system provided by the fourth edition of the U.S. Employment Services' Dictionary of Occupational Titles (DOT). Each entry in the "Occupations in Demand" bulletin corresponds to a unique title and code in the fourth edition DOT.
- Openings Available For Month. The nationwide total of new full-time permanent openings (openings for jobs expected to last 150 days or more) received by Employment Service Job Banks during the month in the occupations listed, plus those carried over from the previous month.
- Openings Still Available at End of Month. The nationwide total of openings still available on the last day of the month. This figure is obtained by subtracting placements and cancellations during the month from the number of openings available.
- Selection Criteria. Occupations included in this bulletin generally are those that were frequently listed at one or more Job Bank district during the previous month. To be considered "frequently listed" in a local area, an occupation must have had a disproportionately large number of openings relative to the total number of openings available at the local Job Bank. For example, a frequently listed occupation in a Job Bank district with 7,000 total openings per month must have had at least 50 openings, while occupations listed for an area with 1,000 total openings could have had as few as 20.

NDTE: Beginning with the November, 1978 edition (Vol. 2, No. 11), the OJD bulletin will exclude data on (1) all job orders over 120 days old and (2) those job orders identified as part of the Mandatory Listing Program (Executive Order 11598) which are over 60 days old and against which no referral activity has been conducted.
